

Fishing 4 Compliments

Fishing 4 Compliments are a Yorkshire-based five piece Indie folk band. The band formed organically around lead singer-songwriter's Eileen's emotive & enigmatic songs with all members sharing a passion for developing and creating their own unique quirky sound emerging from the eclectic mix of influences from which they draw including; The Beatles, XTC, Tom Petty, Mark Knopfler, The Cure, The Smiths, The Sundays and The Cranberries to name but a few.

The band have been bringing their songs to an array of live music venues, pubs and festivals across the North of England and beyond since 2011 and in 2020 they released their debut album 'Off The Isle Of Somewhere.' which led to a nomination within the category of best Folk/Acoustic Act as part of the Radio Wigwam Awards 2020. This initial record of their work was enthusiastically received by reviewers earning them a reputation for creating catchy folk-pop songs.

'F4C specialise in catchy, hook-laden folk/pop songs written by Eileen, which features her clear, natural voice, sometimes with vibrato, which gives the band's music a distinctive unique sound. Eileen is also a fine songwriter who is able to combine intriguing, personal lyrics with a shiny pop sensibility'

October 2025 saw the release of their second album 'Lost In Good Intentions' accompanied by a mini tour of local independent live music venues they love to play and their local record store. This second record of their work brings the 'light and shade' dimension of their music to the fore with reviews expressing a warm enthusiasm for Fishing 4 Compliments and their music picking up on; their; community-based live performance roots, individuality, versatility and genre crossing musicianship together with lead singer-songwriter Eileen's capacity to express an array of emotions. Both albums are produced by J & D Dunwell of the highly successful Leeds-based band Indie Folk band The Dunwells following an expression of their interest in recording Fishing 4 Compliments.

'Whilst I'm only three tracks in, I'm already seeing a real versatility to the band, mixing simple elements to craft something brilliant, it's an incredibly easy listen and something I imagine that you would hear in a beer garden in Summer, whilst supping on your beverage of choice and feeling very chilled out, it's a good feeling... Overall a fantastic album, produced by J & D Dunwell of The Dunwells, full of versatility, fun elements and they are genuinely talented musicians, I look forward to see what else Fishing 4 Compliments come up with'

Fishing 4 Compliments have brought their music to a number of local legendary live music independent venues several times including: The Parish, Huddersfield; The Puzzle Hall, Sowerby Bridge, The Grayston Unity, Halifax and Northern Guitars, Leeds and were invited by award winning independent record store Loafers Vinyl & Coffee (having previously played instore) to open a folk night event headlined by Chris Helme of The Seahorses located in Yorkshire's unique architectural and cultural landmark that is The Piece Hall. In 2023 they were also invited to play Kirklees Music Cities Forum thanks to the support of Kirklees Year of Music. The band offer a uniquely special energy to feed the soul, filled with light and shade, they are highly experienced in live performance and are particularly well suited to the community and family friendly festival/event environment.

"Beautiful folk music, with sounds of Fleetwood Mac, The Cranberries and The Cardigans. Dreamy Melodies and harmonies, weaved together with great musicianship and songs that take you away from everyday life. Great band who love playing live and the audience can't do anything but enjoy it and want to hear more" (Mark Richardson-Owner of Loafers Vinyl & Coffee, The Piece Hall, Halifax)

The band also adapt their formation from duo to trio to full band to suit the event space and venue with Eileen's songs and retro vibe voice always being pivotal. While predominantly focusing on showcasing their original material they also offer their unique take on a sprinkle of indie-folk cover songs that blend seamlessly with their own sound by artists including; The Cure, The Smiths, The La's, Green Day, Dolly Parton, Amy McDonald and Lily Allen.

Fishing 4 Compliments are: Eileen Wattam a.k.a Eileen Alanna (Singer-songwriter); Ashley Wattam (Rhythm Guitar); James Alexander (Lead Guitar & Backing Vocals), Steve Dyson (Bass Guitar & Backing Vocals) and Dave Simpson (Drums). All music to date has been recorded with their previous Drummer / Percussionist and great friend and supporter of the band David Sharp.

Parting thoughts about Fishing 4 Compliments

'Eileen's lyrics pull at personal threads yet cover universal themes. There are explorations into desire, hope, relationships. The things we all encounter. Ultimately, Fishing 4 Compliments are about togetherness. Despite the often-introspective nature of the lyrics, their sound is, you feel, best enjoyed in company, not in isolation. They are very much a band's band, a band for the multiple senses, a band to be seen as well as heard.'

"Fishing 4 Compliments harness the spirit of old folk – perhaps not so much musically, but culturally. Their experiential band energy harks back to a time when community was everything; when art, family and entertainment would melt as one, in the local pub or on the village green. That is their enduring sentiment. Fittingly, their songs are like little lost treasures."
